KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Pre-Conference Course

Full day pre-conference course with the topic of “Mediation analysis using R” will take place in Vilnius University on 2 June, 2019. In this course the modern causal inference based understanding of effect decomposition in the context of real life research problems from medical testing and epidemiology will be introduced. The course will enable the participants to conduct their own mediation analyses in settings with either single or multiple mediators, using medflex. Several shorter exercise sessions throughout the course will ensure that participants actively use the just taught concepts. More details can be found here:
